• Artist

Park Meena(b.1973) graduated from the Department of Painting at the Rhode Island University of Art, USA (1997) and obtained a master's degree from the Department of Painting at Hunter University Graduate School (1999). Park Meena explores the production, distribution, consumption methods, and environment of colors/images that surround us and expresses them with the form of painting. Her work looks like abstract painting or design work that uses art and language as formative elements. However, it can be said that her work is an analogical and metaphorical painting in the sense that she presents a point of view that distinguishes the structure of society and culture through color and shape.

• Explanation

This is one of the 'scream' (2001~2019) series, and it is a work in which iconography is introduced into painting while the artist studies the form of painting. In a large pink flower, a woman screams with her mouth wide open. The uvula is painted as a heart, if the artist doesn't suggest the title 'scream', people may not be able to understand that it is an act of screaming.
